OUR 49th YEAR

EXPO 2014

Our Club has just held its Expo 2014, held over the two days of 11th and 12th April.

It was another successful Show. This was despite the lack of significant visitor numbers on the Sunday.

The Saturday morning was very busy, but attendance fell off in the afternoon. Sunday was very quiet.

All of the dealers seemed quite happy with sales. Their concern, however, at the overall lack of material offered to them for sale. Dealers had come to Orange expecting to make purchases. They found they were offered Decimal stamps & FDC's of limited commercial value & often in a damaged condition. Not much in the way of coins and banknotes was brought in either.

The Club needs to look at strategies to improve Sunday attendance. It has already been suggested that we should finish at 2.30pm on the Sunday.

Although we need to look at the long-term viability of an annual Expo, 2015 will be the Club's 50th Year and we should make some concerted effort to stage not just a good, but a great Expo next time.

Expo is staged when Orange F.O.O.D. Week is in full swing. It brings an estimated 5 000 extra people to town. Yet we received few "overflow" visitors from it. The plan to place leaflets at the main F.O.O.D. Week venues seemed to fizzle out. Also, almost no notices were placed in shop windows. All of this needs extra "hands".

Though we have 45 or so members – and some, we know, were sick and others had prior engagements – some of our members did not even bother to attend, or even send an apology. It's a cause for worry.

EXPO 2014 DISPLAYS

ANDY AULD PERPETUAL SHIELD COMPETITION FOR THE MOST POPULAR DISPLAY AT EXPO 2014

The public (not members) voted for what they thought was the best Expo 2014 display.

The clear winner was Lawrie Sherwin's coin case showing Ancient Roman coinage from each of the 12 Caesars (AE).

Equal 2nd were Aaron Henry's coin case of pocket watches (AA) and Audrey Ferris's cleverly-thought-out stamp picture of cats (Q).

Equal 3rd were Col Davidson's display of obsidian knives & trade artefacts (D) and Klaus Barrasch's Pneumatic Posts of Germany display

"TECHNICAL" DISPLAY WINNERS AT EXPO 2014

As we can never get any accredited judges to cross the Blue Mountains to come to judge at Orange Expo we again asked the visiting dealers to judge our exhibits for their technical merit. Two coin visiting coin dealers judged numismatic displays and a single stamp dealer judged the philatelic displays. The results were:-

NUMISMATIC AWARD

First place went to Col. Davidson's Bone Knives of the New Guinea Warriors [C].
Second place went to Colin Richardson's display of Katangan Crosses & Croisettes [B].
Equal 3rd places went to Greg Willis's display of Poland & Australia Banknotes [O] and Joe Dettner's Dunera Boys [A].

PHILATELIC AWARD

First place went to Klaus Barrasch's 15-page Colonial Western Australia.
Second place went to Klaus Barrasch's 30-page Pneumatic Posts of Germany.
Third place went to Klaus Barrasch's Postcard Picture Puzzles.

Colin Richardson's display of Katangan Crossed & Croisettes

Col Davidson's display of obsidian knives and sharp edges

THANKS TO ALL THOSE WHO HELPED WITH CATERING AT EXPO 2014

Thanks to all those who helped with catering, especially Geoff Henry & his family (Betty & Aaron & Tegan), Graham Doherty & the others, and all those who helped with the supply of items for lunches & morning & afternoon teas.

Geoff Henry's report is reproduced below:-
EXPO 2014 CATERER'S REPORT

"This Expo weekend we again provided about 25 morning teas, lunches & afternoon teas each day to members, dealers and out-of-town visitors. This was about the same as last year. A big thank you to all the canteen helpers & to those who donated food items for this year's Expo. Again, I am pleased to say that we had no food allergy problems or safety issues in the canteen area. Also, a special thanks to Wendy Stoker & Judy Binns for the ingredient lists on their prepared food."

"FOR THE WEEKEND

ROYAL AUSTRALIAN MINT ANZAC CENTENARY COIN PROGRAM

The Royal Australian Mint is currently preparing for the announcement of the Anzac Centenary collectable coin program; we expect to have more information about our coin releases for this important historical and commemorative period in the near future.

To tide you over until that time, we would like to provide you with details of today's launch of the new 2014 $1 100 Years of ANZAC – The Spirit Lives circulating coin. This coin was unveiled by the Minister for Veterans' Affairs, Senator the Hon. Michael Ronaldson and Parliamentary Secretary to the Treasurer, The Hon. Steve Ciobo at Parliament House.

The coin features the Anzac Centenary logo including the image of an Australian Digger. The coin is rimmed with a motif reflecting the sun's rays as captured on the Australian Army's Rising Sun badge. This circulating coin has been produced with the approval of the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

This coin will be entering general circulation around Australia from today, and will be distributed through banks and retailers. This coin is not available for purchase and is not available in uncirculated or proof finish. As a circulating coin, the 2014 $1 100 Years of ANZAC coin is not a part of the Royal Australian Mint's commemorative coin program.

The Mint will be producing a large number of these coins, approximately one for every person in the country. While it may take some time for the circulation to reach everyone, it is hoped that all Australians will have held one of these coins in the near future.

We believe this circulating coin release is a great way to engage all Australians in the Centenary of Anzac commemorations and assist in the story-telling of this history.

We are all very excited for the ANZAC coin program and the coins that we will be making to honour this event over the next four years.

ROYAL MAIL'S WORKING HORSES STAMP ISSUE OF 4 FEBRUARY 2014

Your editor has been impressed with Royal Mail's Working Horses stamp issue of 4th February this year

There are 6 values in the issue: -

1st Class Mail Riding for the Disabled. This organisation is very strong in Orange, but in the U.K. it involves 30 000 people

1st Class Mail The King's Troop Ceremonial Horses. The King's Troop, Royal Artillery draws gun carriages for State & military funerals and are involved in firing Royal Salutes.

88p Dray Horses. A number of draught horses are still employed by the U.K. brewing industry to navigate narrow & winding lanes and for promotion

88p Royal Mews Carriage Horses. Windsor Grey horses have been drawing carriages for the Royal Family since the time of Queen Victoria, and with 20 Bay horses they are integral to State & Royal occasions.

£1.28 Police Horses. The Police originally used horses to catch highwaymen, but now they are used for a variety of crowd control & ceremonial matters.

£1.28 Forestry Horses. Ponies & draught horses still work in forestry, especially in environmentally sensitive areas.

The set of perf 14.5 x 14, gummed stamps sell for £5.56 (+VAT)

Collectors of mint Royal Mail stamps should make themselves familiar with their website: shop.royalmail.com/stamps.

An annual subscription to Royal Mail's Philatelic Bulletin (delivered to Australia) costs £17.95. An annual subscription to Royal Mail's Postmark Bulletin (delivered to Australia) costs £24.95.

Australia Post's equivalent Australian Stamp Bulletin, thankfully, still remains free.

VICTORIA PASS SESQUICENTENARY MEDALLION

To mark the 150th Anniversary of the opening of the 'Pass of Victoria' on the Great Western Highway in 1982, the Mt Victoria Historical Society, the Blue Mountains City Council, the Institution of Engineers and the NSW Departments of Lands & Local Government produced a sesquicentenary medallion. The medallion was struck in bronze and was 56mm in diameter.

An accompanying booklet was also produced outlining the history of Victoria Pass:-

Cox's first Western Road of 1815 descended the Blue Mountains escarpment down Mt York and was very steep. During June 1830 the Surveyor-General, Major Thomas Mitchell marked out a new line of road. He named this new descent "for the sake of convenience, Mount Victoria". He informed the Colonial Secretary McLeay "I have considered it expedient to place the two gangs employed at Mt York, which are very weak, on the descent by Mount Victoria." The gangs were employed on the Lockyer's Pass route to Collitt's Inn.

McLeay wrote back firmly forbidding Mitchell to proceed with the work on the new pass. Mitchell was displeased. He wrote back on 27 July: - "I trust that the work I have begun, on no vague report of an illiterate clown, but after a general survey by myself and assistants, may be suffered to proceed." and instructed his on-site supervisor, Thomas Elliot, to "labour with vigorous activity" on the new pass.

The dispute continued through August, but Mitchell went to Parramatta, and, by early September, had won a grudging consent from an unwilling Governor Darling & a defeated Colonial Secretary for the work to continue.

In November 1830, Supervisor Eliot had reported to Mitchell that 79 men were employed on the Pass of Victoria in grubbing & rolling off the timber, 39 men in quarrying rock & six masons were employed building the wall.

The convict workers, their military guards & other workers were housed in a stockade located on the western end of today's Mt Victoria village (then called One Tree Hill). This was where now Mt York Rd intersects Balmoral Rd.

In January 1831, Assistant Surveyor, John Lambie took over from Supervisor Elliot. The pace of work picked up in 1831.

On August 5th 1831 the Sydney Morning Herald reported: - "On Monday morning last 62 men were despatched to the iron gangs of the interior under strong military escort" and on September 5th that "Major Mitchell is proceeding with expedition in the new road in the Mountains, which cuts off the toilsome road at present in use, by way of Mount York:

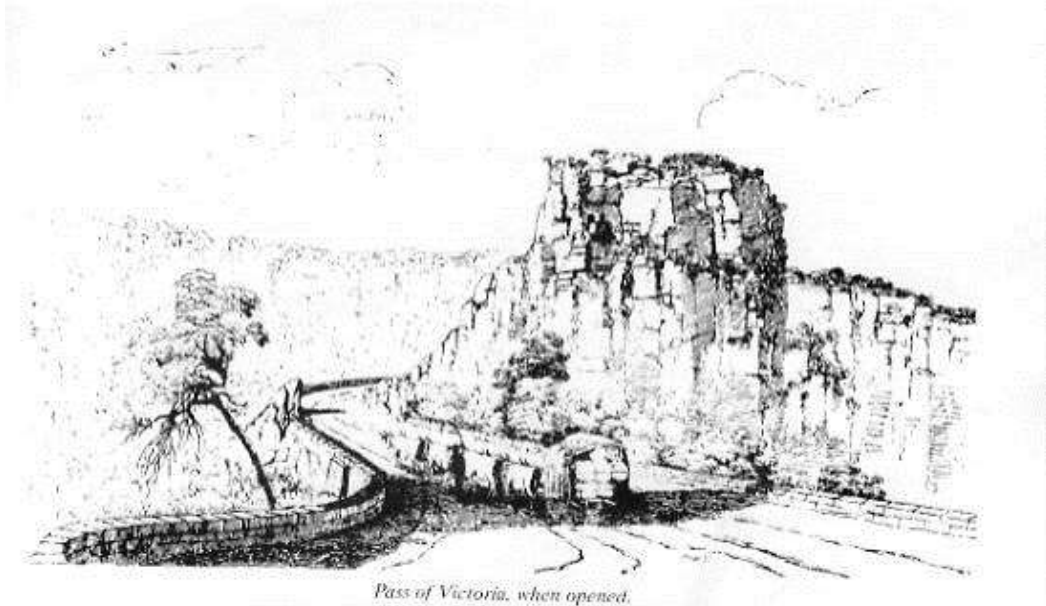

In February 1832, John Lambie reported that 210 convicts in irons and 60 out of irons, were at work on the Pass, whilst the stockade also housed a Bridge party of 62 convicts in irons and 33 out of irons."

The Australian reported on November 16th 1832 that: - Sixty-seven of the 4th Regiment will march from Parramatta on Monday next to relieve the detachment of the 17th Regiment stationed at Mount Victoria".

When Surveyor John Nicholson replaced John Lambie in July 1832, he reported to his Department that "...the side cutting to finish the descent, and render it practicable for traffic can be finished in three weeks from this with the present force."

A geographically confused "The Australian" of 26th October 1832 reported: - His Excellency the Governor set out for Sir John Jamieson's hospitable seat at Regent Ville on Friday, accompanied by Miss Bourke, Mr Richard Bourke, Captain & Mrs Westacott, Major & Mrs Bouverie and several others, meaning to proceed onwards to Bathurst and beyond the plains to Mount Victoria, so as to be present at the opening of a new road in that direction".

On Tuesday 23rd October 1832 Governor Richard Bourke performed the opening ceremony of what Mitchell called "the crowning glory of any road" – the Pass of Victoria.

Pass of Victoria when opened in 1832. A trip from Emu Ford (now Emu Plains) to Bathurst could now be accomplished in 2 days by "fast" mail coach.

The booklet compiled by S Williams for the Mount Victoria Historical Society in 1982, whose cover is illustrated on the previous page, is gratefully acknowledged in compiling this article

THE EMPEROR WHO BECAME A WINE GOBLET

However unlikely the title of this article, it has been recorded by several historians. Nicephorus I became emperor in 802 after deposing his predecessor in a coup and associated his son Stauracius as deputy emperor. The empire was in some strife at the time and Nicephorus set out to rectify matters, especially with regard to the Bulgarians. Nicephorus inflicted two heavy defeats on the Bulgarians and then pursued them into mountainous country, unwisely as it turned out. His army was ambushed and he himself killed in the skirmish. His body would have been recognised by his armour and probably general decorations. The top of his skull was removed and appropriately mounted with a stem and probably handles to create a large goblet for use by the Bulgarian king. Stauracius, now the emperor, was seriously wounded but managed to escape with the remnant of the army. Because he seemed unlikely to recover he abdicated after a reign of a few weeks in favour of his brother in law Michael.

Nicephorus I, with Stauracius. 802-811. AV Solidus (21mm, 4.37 g, 6h).
Constantinople mint. Struck 803-811. Crowned facing bust of Nicephorus, / Crowned facing bust of Stauracius, .

The portraits on this gold solidus are conventional and showed little change from one emperor to the next over a period of a couple of centuries, other than variations in hairstyle. Stauracius looks almost baby faced but his clean shaven appearance is probably intended to show that he was the junior partner of his beau.
